

Gender Dentistry International awards biennially two prizes:

1. The „Nolting Award for Studies in Gender Dentistry“, endowed with 2000,- Euro. The prize is aimed at young dentists, and honors an outstanding scientific paper, a doctoral thesis, or a master thesis. Founder: Dr. Tim Nolting M.Sc.
2. The „GDI Award for Excellence in Gender Dentistry“. The prize is aimed at individuals like university professors or senior scientists who are to be recognized and honored for their commitment to research and teaching.

The prizes were first awarded in 2016.

1. General information on the modalities for the Nolting Award for Studies in Gender Dentistry

Scientific publications which study sex and/or gender specific aspects in all fields of dentistry can be submitted. The publication should not be older than two years at the time of application (publication date). It may be a manuscript that has been submitted for publication but not yet published. The papers should have the form of a journal article conform to the usual structure of „original publications“ (see below).

Appropriate submissions:

- abstract of a doctoral thesis
- master thesis
- abstract of a postdoctoral thesis
- article published in a scientific journal

The submitted paper should include:

- a title page with title, authors, address of the corresponding author (Email address, phone and fax number)
- up to 5 keywords
- abstract (max. 1,5 pages)
- introduction
- material and methods
- results
- discussion and conclusions
- references
- illustrations
- tables
- legends of illustrations and tables

Size:

The size of submitted papers should not exceed 30 pages (except references, illustrations, tables). Arial, font size 12, one-and-a-half line-spacing. File format: Microsoft Word for Windows or Mac in a current version, as doc-, docx- or rtf-file; also possible: pdf.

Please submit your manuscript in digital form via e-mail to info@genderdentistry.online under the heading of „Nolting Award“.

Deadline for applications: August 31st in the year of the award ceremony.

The rating of the applications will be performed by the members of the board and the members of the scientific council, which means that except for the title page the text of the manuscript should contain no hints regarding the authors.

2. General information on the modalities for the „GDI Award for Excellence in Gender Dentistry“

For the GDI Award for Excellence in Gender Dentistry, proposals from the scientific community to the board are welcome. The prize recognizes people that have contributed to sex and gender specific research and teaching in an outstanding way, because they actively promote the development of the knowledge about sex and gender aspects in dentistry. This contribution may consist of offering special courses on sex and gender specific issues, of research projects or the initiation and support of doctoral or postdoctoral theses. The proposal should therefore provide an explanation describing this contribution. Candidates for the „GDI Award for Excellence in Gender Dentistry“ may propose themselves or be proposed by others.

Please submit proposals via e-mail to info@genderdentistry.online.

We wish to thank you for your interest and wish all those who will be entering the awards the very best of luck!
